The first paragraph is long enough that it has to wrap onto several lines inside the narrow column of this page, which is exactly what happens in real PDFs.

A second paragraph follows. It also wraps, and one word here gets hyphen-ated by the author on purpose.

Short line.

The last paragraph ends the document after wrapping across a couple of lines in the column.